SELECTMEN'S REPORT.

Few comments are necessary in submitting our annual report of the financial transactions of the past year.

The expenditures upon highways and bridges have been about as usual.

The snow bills make a prominent showing in the cost of supporting our roads, and call for the serious consideration of some means to relieve our tax payers of the large outlay.

In accordance with instructions from the town, a very commodious and substantial vault has been erected for the safe keeping of the town records and other valuable books and documents. When the walls become perfectly dry, a few dollars expended in painting will make the whole expense of the building about three-fourths of the appropriation.

The expenses for the poor have been very little with the exception of the amount required for the care, nursing and funeral charges of Mrs. Stanton.

ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
SCHOOL COMMITTEE
OF THE
TOWN OF LEYDEN
FOR THE
Year Ending March 1, 1899.

1899
STETSON'S ELECTRIC PRINT,
GREENFIELD, MASS.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

FELLOW TOWNSMEN:

We hope the report we place before you will show no lack of progress on the part of our schools. On one line, at least, there has been an encouraging advance.

Our income from the Mass. School Fund shows a gratifying increase over that of last year, though still considerably less than the amount for 1897. On the other side of the account our financial report shows a larger amount paid in teachers' salaries than usual. Of this, however, $85.00 is money that was paid out as state aid on last year's salaries and has been reimbursed by the state. The amount used for books is considerably less than common.

We expect that the Center school will have its new floor laid and new furniture installed before the summer term begins. With one or two other items of repair finished, the condition of that schoolhouse will then compare favorably with that of any in town. A new teacher's desk is an imperative necessity in the South school and then will remain only the West Leyden schoolhouse to be repaired and refurnished. When that is done all of our school-houses will be in good order.

Owing to the impossibility of securing a boarding place for the teacher on East Hill last fall, the salary was increased to offset the inconvenience. The moral is obvious. Let each district board its own teacher.

The new books purchased during the year consisted mainly of readers and dictionaries. The ease with which an unabridged dictionary may be injured on account of its unwieldy size, has been strikingly exemplified in the case of the Town Hall dictionary put into the Center school.

For the other schools a smaller dictionary has been provided, which will serve all needs admirably and will not be likely to come to pieces with a few years' wear. 'The increase in the number of young children who now attend school has made it necessary to increase our supplies of some of the books in use for them also.

One obstinate case of truancy in town calls for the appointment of a truant officer, by whom the culprit may be brought to justice and the law enforced.
